

ENGLISH (EN)

EN 100 - English Language Skills

Credits: 3

Basic skills of the English language for special interest students requiring such a course.

Note(s): Not for liberal arts credit.

EN 103 - Writing Seminar I

Credits: 4

Introduction to expository writing with weekly writing assignments emphasizing skills in developing ideas, organizing material, and creating thesis statements. Assignments provide practice in description, definition, comparison and contrast, and argumentation. Additional focus on grammar, syntax, and usage. Students and instructor meet in seminar three hours a week; students are also required to meet regularly with a Writing Center tutor.

Note(s): This course does not fulfill the all-college requirement in expository writing.

EN 105 - Writing Seminar II

Credits: 4

This seminar immerses students in the process of producing finished analytical essays informed by critical reading and careful reasoning. Special attention is given to developing ideas, writing from sources, organizing material, and revising drafts. Additional emphasis is on grammar, style, and formal conventions of writing. Students respond to one another's work in workshops or peer critique sessions. Weekly informal writing complements assignments of longer finished papers.

Note(s): Fulfills Expository Writing requirement.

EN 105H - Writing Seminar II

Credits: 4

The honors sections of EN 105 offer highly motivated students with strong verbal skills the opportunity to refine their ability to analyze sophisticated ideas, to hone their rhetorical strategies, and to develop cogent arguments. Toward these goals, students write and revise essays drawing upon a variety of challenging readings and critique each other's work with an eye to depth and complexity of thought, logic of supporting evidence, and subtleties of style. The English Department places some students in EN 105H and encourages other students to consult with their advisors, the director of the Honors Forum, or the director of the Expository Writing Program to determine if this level of Writing Seminar is appropriate. Each section of EN 105H focuses on a topic that is listed in the master schedule and described in the English Department's prospectus and on its Web page.

Note(s): Fulfills Expository Writing requirement.

EN 110 - Introduction to Literary Studies

Credits: 4

Introduction to the practice of literary study, with a particular emphasis on close reading. This course is writing intensive and will include some attention to critical perspective and basic research skills appropriate for literary analysis. Prospective English majors are strongly encouraged to take EN 110 prior to enrolling in 200-level courses.

Note(s): Fulfills Expository Writing requirement.

EN 205D - Sp Topics Nonfiction Writ

Credits: 4

EN 210 - Literary and Cultural Theory

Credits: 3

A broad survey of the foundations of contemporary literary and cultural theory. Readings will focus upon theories of language, culture, and embodiment, tracing the developments of structuralism, post-structuralism, Marxism and the Frankfurt School, psychoanalysis, gender studies, queer theory, postcolonialism, critical race theory, disability studies, and the digital humanities. In studying these movements, students will radically rethink the way that we interpret literature, film, visual art, and digital media.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 211 - Fiction

Credits: 3

Designed to enhance the student's capacity to read novels and short stories. Explores fundamental techniques of fiction, such as symbol and myth, irony, parody, and stream-of-consciousness, within both conventional and experimental forms.

Note(s): Recommended preparation for advanced courses in fiction.

Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 213 - Poetry

Credits: 3

Designed to bring the general student into a familiar relationship with the language and structure of poetry. General readings from the whole range of English and American poetry from early ballads to contemporary free forms introduce students to representative poets and forms.

Note(s): Recommended preparation for advanced courses in poetry.

Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 215 - Drama

Credits: 3

The study of drama as literature. Reading of plays from different historic periods, focusing on modes of comedy, tragedy, romance, tragicomedy, and melodrama. Introduction to the varied possibilities of form, such as expressionism, naturalism, and the absurd.

Note(s): Recommended preparation for advanced courses in drama.

Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 217 - Film

Credits: 3

Study of selected films that demonstrate the development of various rhetorical or expressive techniques in the history of the movies. The course offers practical approaches to film as a medium of communication and as an art by examining a historical and international array of films, both English language and subtitled, by such masters as Griffith, Eisenstein, Chaplin, Stroheim, Lubitsch, Murnau, Pabst, Lang, Clair, Sternberg, Renoir, Carne, Hitchcock, Wells, Ford, DeSica, Rossellini, Ozu, Bergman, Antonioni, Ray, Truffaut, Resnais, Tanner, and others.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 219 - Nonfiction

Credits: 3

An introduction to the reading of nonfiction in a rich variety of styles and types, from memoir and lyric essays to reportage, science writing, and cultural critique. Students will explore the form's expressive range, including the relation to and distinction from other genres, its narrative strategies, its means of achieving a distinctive voice, and its reflection of social contexts.

Note(s): Recommended preparation for advanced courses in nonfiction.

Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 221 - Introduction to Asian American Literature

Credits: 3

A survey of major authors, works, and topics in Asian American literature and culture. The course aims to provide a sense of the historical conditions out of which various forms of Asian American writing and culture have emerged and changed over time. As a literature course, the class will focus on textual analysis and close reading on how specific texts give representational shape to the social and historical experiences that they depict. Readings consist chiefly of works that have canonical status within the field of Asian American literary studies but also include works that suggest new directions in the field. With regard to genre, these readings will include short stories, novels, memoir, autobiography, poetry, and film.

Note(s): Counts as a Language and Literature in Context course and Late Period course. Fulfills Cultural Diversity and Humanities requirements; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 222W - The Victorian Illustrated Book

Credits: 4

An exploration of the Victorian illustrated book as it came into being, flourished, and evolved during the long nineteenth century. This course examines how a genre designed for adults found a home in children's literature at the end of the nineteenth century and gains new expression in our time through the graphic classics, a prescient form of material culture. Students will learn how to evaluate and interpret an illustrated text by "reading" illustrations to decipher meaning and engaging in creative practice to become author-illustrators. 19th century and gains new expression in our time through the graphic classics, a prescient form of material culture. Students will learn how to evaluate and interpret an illustrated text by "reading" illustrations to decipher meaning and engaging in creative practice to become author-illustrators.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 223 - Women and Literature

Credits: 3

An introduction to the study of women and literature, with particular attention to the various ways literary works have helped construct and also question differences between femininity and masculinity. Matters considered include defining basic terms (character, plot, genre, author, sex, gender) and exploring the relations among those terms.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 224 - Literature and the Environment

Credits: 3

A study of how writers have used literature to understand and portray the natural world and our relationship to it. The course examines shifting images of nature-as a locus of the spiritual and the sacred, as a projection of the human psyche, and as a dynamic environment worthy of our concern and protection. The course focuses primarily on fiction and nonfiction of nineteenth- and twentieth-century British and American authors, such as Henry David Thoreau, William Wordsworth, John Muir, Edward Abbey, Terry Tempest Williams, and Barbara Kingsolver; readings may also include myth and poetry.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 225 - Introduction To Shakespeare

Credits: 3

Selected comedies, histories, and tragedies.

Note(s): Counts as a Language and Literature in Context Course and Early Period course. Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 226 - Introduction to American Literature

Credits: 3

An introduction to the major modes and moments of American literature: the literature of contact between Native Americans and Europeans; mid-nineteenth-century literature of reform and protest; the rise of realism and naturalism; and American modernisms.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 227 - Introduction to African-American Literature

Credits: 3

A chronological exploration of literature by African-Americans from the early 1700s to the present, focusing on changes in the content and style and the reasons for those changes, as well as on specific writers.

Note(s): Fulfills Cultural Diversity and Humanities requirements; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 230 - Bible As Literature

Credits: 3

Acquaints students with the contents of the Bible, introduces them to its history (dates of composition, establishment of canon, history of translations, especially in English), and provides practice in identifying and interpreting Biblical allusion in literary works. Some attention will also be given to doctrines and theological controversy.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 235 - Writing Black/Writing Back

Credits: 4

A survey of African American literature from the 1700s to the present. We will examine the uneasy relationship between race and writing, with a particular focus on how representations of gender and sexuality participate in a literary construction of race. Though this course examines African American literary self-representations, we will keep in mind how these representations respond to and interact with the "majority culture's" efforts to define race in a different set of terms. We will focus throughout on literature as a site where this struggle over definition takes place—where African American writers have re-appropriated and revised words and ideas that had been used to exclude them from both American literary history and America itself.

Prerequisites: SSP 100.

Note(s): Fulfills Cultural Diversity and Humanities requirements; fulfills Bridge Experience and Humanistic Inquiry requirements.

EN 237 - Postcolonial Culture

Credits: 3

A study of modern literature from three major sites of British colonialism: India, the Caribbean, and Africa. Students will learn to use postcolonial theory and historical context to analyze literary texts by such writers as Tagore, Narayan, Rushdie, Roy, Carpentier, Rhys, Walcott, Naipaul, Senghor, Achebe, and Coetzee. Literature will be primarily in English; some texts in translation. Students will explore topics like writers' negotiation of native and colonial worldviews and literary traditions; the relationship between ideology and literary form; the politics of anti-colonial nationalism, nativism, exoticism, exile, hybridity, gender, race, caste, class, and sexuality.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities and non-Western cultures requirements; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry and Global Cultural Perspectives requirements.

EN 238 - World Literature

Credits: 3

A study of literature in the context of contemporary globalization. Students will examine transnational literary dynamics, primarily those forged originally by colonialism, which brought the entire globe into contact. Students will explore three conceptual rubrics: postcolonial revisions of major British canonical novels; narrative attempts by Metropolitan intellectuals to represent indigenous voices; and traveling genres. Students will read works by writers such as Rhys, Salih, Coetzee, Black Elk, Hooper, Adiga, Carpentier, and Césaire. Supplemental readings in theory, history, and journalism will situate these literary texts in broader socio-historical context.

Note(s): Fulfills Cultural Diversity and Humanities requirements; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry and Global Cultural Perspectives requirements.

EN 239 - Children's Literature: A History

Credits: 3

Exploration of children's literature as it evolved over the nineteenth, twentieth, and twenty-first centuries, emphasizing the relationship between ideologies of childhood and literature for children and young adults. Students will learn how to evaluate and interpret a children's text from a range of disciplinary perspectives. Attention will be given to the socio-political context of each work, the rise of gender-specific fiction, and the ways children's literature and young adult fiction in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries have responded to race, religion, and sexuality.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirements; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement. Must be taken for a letter grade.

EN 241 - Afrofuturism: Literature and Culture

Credits: 4

An examination of Afrofuturist cultural production across literature, music, film, and visual art. Paying close attention to how speculative, science-fictional, and technological motifs allow for new formulations of aesthetic and social possibility, students will consider how Afrofuturist creators approach questions of power, embodiment, community, and futurity in relation to Black culture and identity.

Prerequisites: SSP 100.

Note(s): Fulfills Cultural Diversity and Humanities requirements; fulfills Bridge Experience requirement.

EN 242 - Disability in Contemporary America

Credits: 4

An exploration of disability as a complex interaction between individual bodies and minds and broader social expectations, categorizations and judgments. We will learn key vocabulary and study the history of oppression and resistance that gave birth to the American disability rights movement. Finally, we will think about what these national issues mean on our own campus. Remembering that college students and college campuses have been major players in the struggle for disability justice, we will consider what it would mean for our campus to be broadly "accessible."

Prerequisites: SSP 100.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Bridge Experience requirement.

EN 244 - Imagining the Future

Credits: 3

A course on the history of the future. Readings survey utopian and dystopian fiction from the nineteenth century to the present, with strategic excursions into both film and journalism. The course's final weeks turn to issues that both energize and trouble today's attempts to imagine what lies ahead: What and who will be our future?

Note(s): Fulfills the Humanities requirement; fulfills the Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 245 - Science Fiction

Credits: 3

An examination of the nexus of politics and science that has informed science fiction from its inception until the present day. This course explores the history of the genre and its approach to religion, race relations, gender, totalitarianism, and a host of distinctly modern phenomena. Readings will vary from year to year but may include writers like H. G. Wells, Olaf Stapledon, Octavia Butler, Margaret Atwood, Isaac Asimov, and James Tiptree Jr.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 246 - Asian American Women in Literature & Media

Credits: 4

An exploration of the relationship between race, gender, and genre in U.S. literature and media by and about Asian American women from the twentieth century through the present. The course examines how Asian American women have been figured by interconnected modes of power, injustice, identity formation, representation, and knowledge production, as well as histories of U.S. wars, empire, immigration, and labor. Questions that the course addresses include: why have realist novels and autobiographies by women been the dominant genre of Asian American literature? What happens to the figure of the Asian American woman in more experimental and extravagant genres? How and to what end have various genres figured Asian American women as national, transnational, and/or diasporic figures? The course introduces students to major concepts and developments in Asian American literary and cultural studies and gender studies.

Prerequisites: SSP 100.Note(s): Fulfills Cultural Diversity and Humanities requirements; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry and Bridge Experience requirements.EN 248 - The Brontës

Credits: 3

An intensive study of the Brontës, arguably the greatest English literary family of the nineteenth century. A madwoman in the attic, deathless love, and spousal abuse are some of the sensational themes that define the Brontë canon. Readings include Charlotte Brontë's Jane Eyre (1847), Emily Brontë's Wuthering Heights (1847), Anne Brontë's The Tenant of Wildfell Hall (1848), biography, and poetry. We will distinguish between the Brontës' lives and literary myths and explore why their works are read as a canon and their lives are retold collectively.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry.EN 249 - Chekhov: Plays, Stories, Letters & Life

Credits: 3

Focus of the course is on the major plays (The Seagull, The Cherry Orchard, etc.) and stories of this prolific and influential Russian writer, with supplementary reading from his letters. A biographically-inflected exploration of the work of a generous, engaged person of letters who was also a public health pioneer, early environmentalist, and critic of Russian politics and society during its famous turn-of-the-century "twilight," on the verge of revolution.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.EN 251 - Special Studies in Creative Writing

Credits: 4

Introduction to various forms and styles of creative writing, with reading and writing assignments geared to the beginning writer. Note(s): May be repeated with a different topic. Fulfills Arts requirement; fulfills Artistic Inquiry requirement.EN 253 - Graphic Narratives and Comic Books

Credits: 3

An exploration of major graphic narratives from the past thirty years, focusing on how authors intertwine text and image in ways that create new approaches to narrative, new perspectives on social and cultural issues, and new ways of reading. Topics for consideration may include how authors explore questions of power and politics, memory and trauma, identity and embodiment, and time and space through this hybrid form.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.EN 254 - Prose Boot Camp

Credits: 4

Prose Boot Camp offers highly motivated students an opportunity to refine their expository writing skills. In weekly copywriting and ghostwriting assignments of increasing complexity, students are exposed to and strive to meet the standards of professional editors. Close attention to style, grammar, and mechanics at the level of the sentence. Counts as a prerequisite for EN 378.

Prerequisites: Completion of the expository writing requirement.Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.EN 280 - Introduction to Nonfiction Writing

A study of British, Irish, and American poets since the 1930s: Auden, Thomas, Larkin, Heaney, Lowell, Berryman, Plath, and Rich.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 315 - Eighteenth-Century Novel

Credits: 3

A generic, thematic, and cultural consideration of selected romances and novels by Behn, Defoe, Swift, Richardson, Fielding, Sterne, Goldsmith, Burney, and Austen. The study begins with the formulae of fictional romance and examines the development of the more sophisticated, psychological novel as it rises to eminence in English literature.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 316 - Nineteenth-Century British Novel

Credits: 3

A generic, thematic, and cultural consideration of selected novels by Austen, the Brontës, Thackeray, Dickens, Eliot, Trollope, and others.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 322 - Special Studies in Nineteenth-Century American Literature

Credits: 3

Investigation of a topic in American literature in the context of the sometimes competing social, economic, racial, political, and nationalist attitudes of the century. Students may study various topics including nature and the environment, gender and relationships, slavery and abolition, and protest and reform; and may draw upon letters, diaries, travel writing, poetry, novels, personal narratives, and political essays by such writers as Brown, Irving, Cooper, Wheatley, Thoreau, Emerson, Hawthorne, Whitman, Dickinson, Melville, Twain, Poe, Stanton, Truth, Douglass, and Stowe.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 323 - American Literary Realisms

Credits: 3

A study of realism as both a late-nineteenth-century literary movement and a style with continuing influence in the U.S. Students will examine not only the classic stage of realism (through writers that may include Twain, Howells, Dreiser, Wharton) but also the emergence of realism at other points in American literary history, including the socialist realism of the Great Depression and the appropriation of realism by minority writers in the late twentieth century.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 324 - American Fictions

Credits: 3

A study of major American novels in their literary, cultural, and theoretical contexts, with an emphasis on the literary construction of "America" as both idea and place. Readings will vary from one year to the next, but may include works by Stowe, Hawthorne, Melville, James, Twain, Wharton, Cather, Fitzgerald, Hemingway, Faulkner, Ellison, Morrison, and Silko.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 325 - American Modernisms

Credits: 3

A consideration of the multiple literary expressions of the American Modernist period (roughly 1900-1940), with particular attention to the aesthetic issues that preoccupied leading writers and critics, as well as the cultural formations and controversies that marked these years. Topics will include "high" modernism, modernist uses of realism, the Harlem Renaissance, Depression-era radicalisms, and "middlebrow" paradigms (e.g., magazine fiction or hard-boiled detective fiction).

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 326 - Special Studies in Contemporary U.S. Literature and Culture

Credits: 3

Topics, genres, and authors selected from U.S. literary and cultural history after 1945. Course content will vary but could include contemporary U.S. literatures, popular culture, new media, and/or critical theory. Matters considered include social and historical contexts (race and ethnicity, gender and sexuality, digital culture, technology, globalization) and relations between these contexts and U.S. literature and culture after 1945.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 327 - Special Studies in African-American Literature

Credits: 3

Topics, genres, traditions, and authors selected from African-American literary history. Topics will vary from one year to the next, but could include the literature of slavery: African-American domestic fiction; the Harlem Renaissance; African-American realisms, African-American poetics; contemporary African-American writing; single author studies.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

Note(s): Fulfills the Cultural Diversity requirement.

EN 328 - James Joyce's Ulysses

Credits: 3

An exploration of the work of one of the defining writers of the early twentieth century, James Joyce. This course focuses in particular on one of the most celebrated and despised novels in the English language, his 1922 novel, Ulysses. Famously difficult, Ulysses often defeats even the most hardcore readers. The majority of this class focuses on the process of analyzing Joyce's audacious novel and understanding how it became for many the paradigmatic expression of a modernist sensibility. This class may include Joyce's short story collection, Dubliners (1914), and his first novel, A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man (1915).

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement

EN 329 - Shakespeare and Embodiment

Credits: 3

A study of the way that Shakespeare stages embodiment, with a particular emphasis upon categories of gender, race, sexuality, and ability. To that end, the course begins with a survey of queer theory, critical race theory, disability studies, and posthumanism in order to give students insight into the ways that bodies are constructed and contested. Readings then include Richard III, The Merchant of Venice, As You Like It, Macbeth, King Lear, and Antony and Cleopatra, as well as several scholarly works that will help students to think about the history and politics of embodiment in the early modern period.

Prerequisites: Completion of the introductory requirement.

EN 331 - The Wild(e) Nineties

Credits: 3

A course on the literature, arts, and culture of the 1890s in England. Oscar Wilde is the course's presiding genius (as he was for the decade), but such figures as Arthur Conan Doyle, Olive Schreiner, Aubrey Beardsley, and H.G. Wells will also be discussed. A wide range of genres—from the detective story, the feminist novel, and the fairy tale to poster art, apocalyptic and Gothic fiction, and radical journalism—facilitates this course's examination of an era's preoccupations: gender and sexuality, theater and performativity, empire and power, morbidity and degeneration, the city and decadence, socialism and aestheticism.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 332 - The Pastoral

Credits: 3

Tracing this central theme of Western art from its classical origins (Hesiod, Theocritus, Virgil) to its flowering in 16th and 17th century English poetry (Spenser, Sidney, Shakespeare, Marvell, Herbert, Milton), to later versions in Romantic and Environmentalist poets. Final research papers will explore Pastoral concerns in such 20th and 21st century writers as Hardy, Frost, Grahame, Snyder, Oliver, Merwin, Gander, et alia.

Note(s): Fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Humanistic Inquiry requirement.

EN 337 - The Continental Novel

Credits: 3

The continental novel as an expression of social, intellectual, and artistic problems; not an historical survey. Readings may vary from one year to the next but will include major authors such as Stendhal, Flaubert, Dostoyevsky, Tolstoy, Proust, Gide, Mann.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 338 - Queer Fictions

Credits: 3

A study of twentieth-century gay and lesbian literature, with a focus on British and American authors. Students will explore a literary tradition in which the invisible was made visible—in which historically marginalized sexualities took literary shape. Questions to be considered include: What strategies have lesbian and gay authors used to express taboo subject matter, and how have these strategies interacted with and challenged more traditional narrative techniques? How does the writing of queer sexuality recycle and revise notions of gender? What kind of threat does bisexuality pose to the telling of coherent stories? In what ways do class, race, and gender trouble easy assumptions about sexual community?

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 339 - Queer Theories (and Practices)

Credits: 4

An overview of foundational texts and significant ideas in the field of gender and sexuality studies, focusing on the interplay between theory and praxis in the struggle for queer liberation. Our readings will be focused on key U.S.-American writings from the past half century. Students will gain familiarity with major thinkers and important concepts for LGBTQ+ life and critique today, including: gender and sexual norms and nonconformity; queer intersections with race, ethnicity, and nationhood; LGBTQ+ aesthetics, sociality, and world-making; dissident forms of desire and identification; solidarities and protest. As an advanced English Department seminar, we will also devote special attention to queer literary critique and contemporary LGBTQ+ fiction, poetry, and drama. The course will culminate in students designing and executing a mid-length independent research project. Involves several practice-based/application components, including special guest conversations, service learning events, and creative writing assignments.

Prerequisites: SSP 100.

Note(s): Earns Honors Forum credit; fulfills Humanities requirement; fulfills Bridge Experience requirement.

EN 341 - Special Studies In Medieval Literature

Credits: 3

Investigation of a special topic in medieval English literature with special attention to medieval literary conventions and to the cultural context in which they developed. Topics studied may draw on the works of the Gawain-poet, Langland, Malory, and others, and may focus on a genre, a theme, or a period.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

Note(s): With permission of the department, the course may be repeated once with a different topic for credit.

EN 342 - Special Studies in Chaucer

Credits: 3

Chaucer's dream visions and The Canterbury Tales (ca. 1370-1400). The social, economic, religious, and literary background of the High Middle Ages will clarify the satiric aspects of individual tales. Chaucer's innovative handling of the conventions of frame and link-between-tales leads to speculation about the structure of the fragment as a competitive sequence and about the formal correlatives to a justice if not judicial at least poetic.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 343 - Elizabethan and Jacobean Drama

Credits: 3

Study of the drama of the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries, exclusive of Shakespeare, but including such writers as Marlowe, Jonson, Webster, Beaumont, and Fletcher.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

EN 344 - Special Studies In Sixteenth-Century Poetry and Prose

Credits: 3

Topics, genres, traditions, and authors selected from the wide range of sixteenth-century non-dramatic literature, poetry, and/or prose. Topics studied may draw on such authors as More, Sidney, Spenser, Shakespeare, and Queen Elizabeth. Selections will vary depending upon the area of interest emphasized in a given semester.

Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.

Credits: 3

A study of nineteenth-century English literature and thought, featuring such principal prose writers as John Stuart Mill, Matthew Arnold, John Ruskin, Thomas Carlyle, Walter Pater, and William Morris, and such poets as Alfred Tennyson, Robert Browning, and Christina Rossetti. Emphasis is given to a wide range of topics including political reform, evolution, the rise of liberalism, the hero in history, the meaning of literary ideas, and conceptions of beauty.

*Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.EN 354 - Jane Austen

Credits: 3

An examination of the novels of Jane Austen, a keenly satiric writer whose work, deeply rooted in her time, resonates in our time. Beginning with biography, students will read Austen's six published novels in the order they were published—Sense and Sensibility (1811), Pride and Prejudice (1813), Mansfield Park (1814), Emma (1816), Persuasion (1818), and Northanger Abbey (1818). Students will enter Regency ballrooms, country estates, and domestic parlors to examine Austen's voice and pressing issues of her day that she actively critiqued—e.g. the economics of marriage, social class stratification, primogeniture, entailment, and slavery. Assignments will help students to situate Austen in her historical moment and prepare them to read critically, participate actively, research deeply, and write analytically.

*Prerequisites: Completion of Introductory Requirement.EN 359 - Modernism and Drama

Credits: 3

An internationally comparative study of authors and artists key to the development of drama from the late 19th to the mid-20th century. Emphasis on tensions between realism and formalism; between classical, textual drama and new modes of theatricality; and between dramatic and literary modernism. Students will investigate the history of significant art movements such as naturalism, absurdism, and epic theater, among others. Readings will vary from year to year, but may include works by Luigi Pirandello, Gertrude Stein, and Zora Neale Hurston.

*Prerequisites: Completion of the Introductory Requirement.EN 360 - Women Writers

Credits: 3
