

INTERGROUP RELATIONS

Department Overview

Intergroup Relations (IGR) is designed for students with a curricular interest in race, social justice, and dialogic pedagogies. IGR links the study of systems of oppression to lived experience. Intergroup Relations courses ground students with a foundational understanding of racial identity within the U.S., linking to other aspects of identity as lived within intersecting systems of domination, such as gender, sexuality, class, religion, and nationality. The program bridges theory and content with group process and experiential exercises, using the practice of dialogue as a means of communicating across difference, surfacing and working with conflict, and affecting positive social change. Students apply IGR theory and content by participating in and facilitating dialogues with other students. The minor culminates with the opportunity for students to work with peers as co-facilitators of campus dialogues. Minors acquire skills applicable across academic disciplines and professional fields. Indeed, the ability to effectively engage in difficult conversations transcends the classroom to impact interactions in the home, workplace and community at-large.

Course Listing

IG 201A-D - Intergroup/Intragroup Race Dialogues: People of Color/White People

Credits: 2-2

In intergroup/intragroup race dialogue, students learn about racial identity, conflict, community, and social justice in the United States. Trained peer-facilitators encourage dialogue about controversial social issues, such as affirmative action, immigration reform, and interracial relationships in a small classroom setting within the context of the relevant racial identity group(s). Working together with their peer-facilitators, student participants explore similarities and differences among and across groups and strive toward building a multicultural and democratic community.

Prerequisites: Permission of instructor.

IG 251 - Special Topics in Intergroup Relations

Credits: 1-4

An examination of special topics, methods, and areas in intergroup relations. Specific topics vary by instructor and semester.

Prerequisites: Permission of instructor.

Note(s): May be repeated for credit if on a different topic.

IG 262 - Taking the Journey Home

Credits: 3

An examination of the concept of home as it relates to the historical and contemporary realities of Black people in the United States. Using the work of renowned scholars and writers such as bell hooks and Toni Morrison, students explore notions of home as a catalyst for (IGR) dialogue both within and between families and communities. Students interrogate their own experiences of home as they grow as a community of writers and critical thinkers.

IG 351 - Advanced Special Topics in Intergroup Relations Theory and Praxis

Credits: 1-4

An examination at the advanced level of special topics, methods, and areas in intergroup relations theory and praxis. Specific topics vary by instructor and semester.

Prerequisites: Permission of instructor.

Note(s): May be repeated for credit if on a different topic.

IG 361 - Racial Identities: Theory and Praxis

Credits: 4

An integration of sociological theory and praxis in a seminar that prepares students to facilitate dialogues on race. What factors hinder meaningful discourse about race? What skills promote interracial communication? How can we learn to engage more effectively in dialogue about race, power, and privilege in the United States? Through readings in racial identity theory, reflective and analytic writing, and experiential practice of dialogic communication skills, students learn to facilitate dialogues on controversial race-related topics, such as affirmative action, immigration reform, and interracial relationships.

Prerequisites: Grade of B or better in SO 219 and permission of instructor.

Note(s): IG 361 is identical to SO 361 except that it is not taught by Sociology faculty.

IG 364 - Practicum in Facilitating

Credits: 3

A course that helps students develop and improve their skills as dialogue facilitators. This will be done in the context of the belief that facilitation skills can be used throughout life to create social change. Good facilitators are social change agents. Moreover, by debriefing their actual dialogue experiences, facilitators can deepen their learning about racial identity, discrimination, privilege, and social justice.

Prerequisites: Grade of B or better in IG 361 and permission of instructor.

Note(s): Must be taken concurrently with IG 365.

IG 365 - Dialogue Facilitation

Credits: 2

An intergroup or intragroup dialogue course in which students facilitate dialogues about racial identity, conflict, community, and social justice.

Prerequisites: Grade of B or better in IG 361 and permission of instructor.

Note(s): Must be taken concurrently with IG 364.

IG 371 - Independent Study

Credits: 1-4

A program of individual reading and research under the direction of the intergroup relations faculty.

SO 219 - Race and Power

Credits: 4

A critical analysis of race, racism, and racial justice in the United States, as set in a global, historical context defined by power. In addition to traditional modes of teaching-learning, students use intergroup dialogue and collaborative group work to explore and communicate how race is constructed, experienced, reproduced, and transformed within hierarchical systems of domination and subordination. Topics include racial identity development and the ways individuals internalize and 'live race' in relation to other identities (e.g., gender, sexuality, disability and class); historical mechanisms of racialization, through which bodies, groups, practices, and space are 'raced'; institutional dimensions of race, racialization, and racial inequality (e.g., in law, education, popular culture); and practices for resisting racism and pursuing racial justice—in groups and organizations, across society more broadly, and within one's embodied experience.

Prerequisites: SSP 100, permission of instructor, and either (1) IG 201, or (2) 1 sociology gateway course from SO 101 or SO 201 or SO 202 or SO 203 or SO 204.

Note(s): Fulfills Cultural Diversity requirement; fulfills Bridge Experience requirement.

SO 361 - Racial Identities: Theory and Praxis

Credits: 4

An integration of sociological theory and praxis in a seminar that prepares students to facilitate dialogues on race. What factors hinder meaningful discourse about race? What skills promote interracial communication? How can we learn to engage more effectively in dialogue about race, power, and privilege in the United States? Through readings in racial identity theory, reflective and analytic writing, and experiential practice of dialogic communication skills, students learn to facilitate dialogues on controversial race-related topics, such as affirmative action, immigration reform, and interracial relationships.

Prerequisites: Grade of B or better in SO 219 and permission of instructor.
